

In the heart of Malacca, lies a quaint manor - stately on the outside, charming inside. An old Peranakan treasure that was once the home of rubber plantation owner and philanthropist, Tan Jiak Choo, the grandson of Malaysia's best-known philanthropist Tan Kim Seng, Esq.

Today, it epitomises the solace and beauty of old world charisma presented in a hotel that is unlike any other.

Serenity in the heart of Malacca

Puri Melaka.

Carefully restored and preserved, it is a showhouse of the elegant Peranakan manor exclusive to Jalan Tun Tan Cheng Lock. Here, you will find all the distinct characteristics of the homes from a grand era. The solid ancient marble and wood, intricately carved wall panels, finely decorated airwell, lush green Sekaya Garden and quaint cafe are just some of the details that recreate a unique and charming ambience.

You will also be delighted to know that Puri Melaka is conveniently located with easy access to Malacca's historical sites and antique shops. A leisurely stroll or a picturesque trishaw ride will take you to the famous Jonker Street, the Stadthuis, A' Famosa, and other wonderful tourist attractions.

So when you're in Malacca, do drop in for a stay. At Puri Malacca, your experience of our life and culture will be simply a matter of the heart.
